

P. S. I have just received this morning your letter of September 30, enclosing proofs in cut dummy form of diagrams 1-12. As soon as I have an opportunity to examine them I shall write you in detail.

I am rather unhappy that you are going to put two cuts on one page. This will make it very difficult for the reader, as this is a technical text and much of the exposition should be immediately under each cut, rather than on another page. From a pedagogical standpoint you can see that it will be very difficult to look at the diagram and then turn to the next page for the exposition.

If you will consult "My Basketball Bible" you will see that the exposition is close to the cuts. I was hoping that as much of the exposition as possible might appear near the cuts. However, I will be guided by what you think about that. I want to emphasize that we have placed the diagrams where we think they belong. But we will play the game with you, and follow your advice.
