Dear Clarence:

Thanks for your dandy letter. It does seem a simple thing, doesn't it, when a fellow is less than fifty miles from a friend and cannot pick a day for a game of golf.

Ernie Quigley asked me to go out to Salina and now I am trying to shuffle my date so that I can make that and make your connection. I may have to take a rain check and come between the first and fifteenth of September, if you will be in town. Let's leave it this way. As soon as I find that I am free I will give you a ring over the telephone for a possible date because I want to play with you, fellow, but more than that I want to visit with you and rehash some of our old times.

With all good wishes, I am

Sincerely yours,
