

February 16, 1943.

Mr. C. E. McBride,
Sports Editor,
Kansas City Star,
Kansas City, Mo.

Dear Mac:

Just returned home from Iowa State, and to put first things first I am giving you the standing of the scores between Kansas and Colorado and the years they played ;

	Kansas	Colorado
1931	34	25
	36	28
	25	19
1932	22	25
	41	22
	34	25

1942 - N.C.A.A. play-off in Kansas City, Colorado won by 2 points.

I am sorry to learn about that old lame sacro-iliac. Boy, you've got it, even though you didn't spell it correctly, you have got it, and you know what it is. I will be tickled to death at the first opportunity that I have to flix it.

You heard about that tongue-tied family, didn't you, when the little youngster ran in the house and discovering a small tadpole in the spring that the family got their water from, shouted to his mother, "Oh, mom, mom, there's a flog in the fling! There's a flog in the fling!" The tongue-tied mother said, "A flog in the fling! Can't I ever teach you to talk flopper?" And the tongue-tied father said, "Talk flopper! Now you've flixed it, sure enough!"

So I will see if I can't flix it for you. I will make that the first order of business after we take our licking from the "iron duke" down at Stillwater. We are leaving tonight. As soon as I get back I will plan to run in and see you and buy you a dish of spaghetti and meat balls. I would sure like to have a good visit with the old maestro and talk over the last three or four years since we have had a real good chance to chew the fat. But we are in the war, mister, and I imagine we will have to forego that until we whip the slit-eyes, the squareheads and the spaghetti-benders.