

comes along who has had more experience.

In speaking of openings in University P.E. Departments, what is this I hear about the K.U. Mens Dept.? I'm glad to hear that you and Mr. Elbel are remaining there to hold down the fort. Are you still working toward a department that can offer graduate degrees?

I may have overstepped my grounds when I wrote to Dr. Samuel F. Harby, acting director of P.E. at Antioch College in the absence of the director, and told him of the K.U. situation as it was described to me so don't be surprised if you get a letter from him. He is one of the most outstanding fellows I've met in the field of physical ed. He was at N.Y.U. Camp last summer. He already had his Ph.D. from Columbia U; but in order to acquaint himself with N.Y.U. and broaden his knowledge, he attended classes carrying the equivalent of 10 or 12 hours work but receiving credit for only part of it. He made some fine contributions to the N.Y.U. Camp. He taught tumbling (he has a book out on tumbling + stunts) and sailing during recreation hour. He has traveled extensively throughout the world, has directed sailing tours along the West Coast + this summer is in charge of a cruise from Seattle to Mexico.

During this past year Dr. Harby served as Director of Physical Education at Antioch. The Director will return this fall after his year's leave, thus Sam is interested in getting a new position.

The above is an off the record speech - all free of charge; but as I said before don't be surprised if you hear from Dr. Harby, and I confess I'm to blame.

I'm looking forward to N.Y.U. Camp with the usual enthusiasm and an expectation of receiving my M.A. degree at the end of the summer.

School is out here June 13. I'm not sure where I'll spend my restful week before
