

years as a means of training their young men not only for peace but also, if necessary, for war. Others have reported that their departments are cooperating in research studies dealing with fatigue and diets, and yet others have reported plans to enlarge the programs of athletics, laying out of additional play space, etc.

If you wish to cooperate in these matters, kindly fill out the blank and return at once.

John L. Griffith.