

Return to Desk

June 9, 1945.

Miss Helen Wagstaff, Secretary,
Bureau of General Information,
University of Kansas.

My dear Miss Helen:

I have kept your letter of December 15th on my desk, hoping to respond to your request; but frankly, I have been so confounded busy that I haven't had an opportunity to sit down and do the job that I wanted to do for you.

I am having the letter returned to my desk so that I can answer it fully, if and when I have a breathing spell. Will you please forgive me my negligence? My desire has been to respond promptly, but it has been impossible.

Very sincerely yours,
