Will This Stop You Golfers?

Still, the Doc Says It's Worthwhile

Montreal, March 29 (U.P.)—Dr. A. S. Lamb, McGill university physical education director, told the City Improvement league Wednesday golf is good for public health because it keeps doctors outdoors and gives sick people a chance to get well.

"Public health is better because of golf, not because golf itself is healthful," he said.

"Golf increases the blood pressure, ruins the disposition, spoils the digestion, induces neurasthenia, hurts the eyes, callouses the hands, ties kinks in the nervous system, debauches the morals, drives men to drugs, drink and homicide, breaks up the family, turns the ductless glands into internal warts.

"It also corrodes the pneumogastric nerve, breaks the edges off the vertebrae, inducts spinal meningitis and progressive mendacity, starts angina pectoris, but it keeps the doctors out in the open air and gives the people in the hospitals and sickrooms a chance to get well."
