3- Review

Cadets will fall in on the designated parade ground, by companies, in order of seniority. They will march in review past the reviewing officer, and will proceed around the circular drive, and back again to carry out inspection procedure.

When passing in review, battalion and company commanders will salute, and company commanders will give the command "eyes right" when his company is six paces from the reviewing officer. The inboard file will keep the head and eyes straight ahead, the others will hold the position until given "ready front" by the Company commander when the last man in the Company is past the reviewing stand.

4-Inspection

Battalion Commander will halt the battalion in front of the reviewing officer, and face them. He will then give the command "prepare for inspection". Company commanders will, in succession give the command "open ranks, march", do a left face in marching and will dress each squad of the company. At the 4th rank they will do an about face, come one pace in front of the platoon, do a left face in marching, stop in front of the first file, give the command "ready front". They will then do a left face and give the command "parade rest". He will then execute an about face and come to parade rest.

As the inspecting officer approaches the Company Commander will come to attention, will bring his company to attention. He will salute the inspecting officer and sound off "1st Company, Sir". He will fall in behind the inspecting officer. He will salute him on leaving, will go to the front of his company, give command "close ranks march" and parade rest. Battalion Commander will call battalion to attention and march them off.
