

With the arrival here March 21st of Raymond Schlotterbeck, representative of the Life Saving service of the National Red Cross, the review of Life Saving examiners and enrollment of new ones will begin immediately. Examiners are expert swimmers with teaching ability who have passed Red Cross tests. It is upon this group that the National Organization depends to carry its message in water safety methods to thousands of swimmers each year.

The chairman of the local chapter's Life Saving service is Herbert G. Allphin.

In announcing details of the swimming expert's visit, he said:

The examiners school will be held in the evenings, 7:00 to 10:00 p.m. at the K. U. pool, Monday to Friday inclusive.

Tuesday - Demonstration and lecture at the Baldwin City High School, 2:30 p.m.

Thursday - Kiwanis luncheon talk, "Highway First Aid", sponsored by the American Red Cross.

Friday - 2 to 4, Home Hygiene and Care of the Sick at Lane Star.

Mr. Allphin stated that seven persons had already signed up for the Red Cross School of Examiners.
