

October 24, 1939.

Dear Jane:

I received a letter from John Glenn, which I am enclosing because I thought there might be some things of interest to you. The purple stain on the back of the letter is not the life blood of any blue blood. It just happens to be Cramer's gargle, I think. Of course, Cramer didn't gargle this gargle!

Just received your letter this morning and I called Dr. Esterly for an appointment for Saturday morning at 8:30 and got it. But are you lucky! Susie said someone called this morning and broke an appointment for Saturday morning at 8:30. So you are all set. We will be looking for you Friday evening.

With love, I am

Affectionately, Your Dad
