

December 23, 1939.

Dear Bobby:

Since you have eaten your potatoes and spinach and beans, and you drink your milk and go to bed when your mother tells you to, Santa Claus wants you to know that he rewards good little boys who obey their parents and who grow strong to become big men. He is sending you some tickets so that you can go to the movies to see Santa Claus, the reindeer and the Christmas trees, and all the little funny folks who make good children laugh.

With best wishes for a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year, I am

Sincerely yours,

Director of Physical Education and Recreation,
Varsity Basketball Coach.
