Dear Miss Pearson:

Dr. Allen has asked this office to make the reservations asked for in your letter of Friday, February 8. Enclosed, you will find five tickets for the Nebraska game and four for the Iowa State game.

I am sorry we do not have the tickets for the location that you used to get in pre-war days. Those tickets were sold sometime ago and, in fact, we are entirely out of reserved seat tickets for the Iowa State game and I am giving you four chair seats at the end of the playing court. We still have general admission tickets in the top balcony which I know you would not want.

For the Nebraska game, we have been able to get you the five seats in section 7, row B, which is the second row of permanent seats over to the side. I am sorry, we did not anticipate your attendance at these games -- in that case, we would have held back the tickets for you. I recall very definitely that you always had the first row of temporary seats at the east end of the playing court.

Hoping you will find these locations satisfactory and thanking you for your order, I am

Sincerely yours,

E. L. Falkenstien
Financial Secretary
