

Mrs. Livingston: Yes. We have different types of people - which we might divide into these four groups - the athletic, the creative, the mental, and the social. They like different types of activities, - so we plan parties and activities in order that each type will have at least a few of their favorite forms of activities. For instance, Mr. _____, I would like to tell you a love story

Announcer: A love story! Well, we certainly would like to hear one.

Mrs. Livingston: In this case, as in most of the others, it takes two people to make a love story. Will you help me?

Announcer: Let's go!

Mrs. Livingston: Now, every time that I play, you name it. Ready

"Musical Story" (about 4 min.)

Mrs. Livingston: Wasn't that fun? Just an example, and everyone can make up their own story. For instance, stories of the services, the clubs - how they were organized; Bible stories, using favorite hymns; Mother Goose rhymes for children; and, always, the popular hits of the day for the teen-agers.

Announcer: What do you do to mix up a crowd at a party?

Mrs. Livingston: A little musical mixers - Couples or Threesomes.

Announcer: What do you mean by threesomes?

Mrs. Livingston: Ad Lib. "Honey, you can't love one"

"Pass the Ammunition"
