

that they performed very adequately. Of course as time goes by there will be great improvement in the precision of the regiment's movements."

Another similar practice review is scheduled for a week from tomorrow.

Dressed in white T-shirts, white trousers and white hats the 293 members of the regiment presented a striking picture against the background of the college buildings.

The six companies marched onto the athletic field and went through their familiar gym exercises which they had been practicing for three weeks. At the next review the commands that were shouted last Saturday will be sounded by a bugler.

At the coming review we can all expect a polished performance from the regiment which will by that time have had five weeks of marching midable as any combination. Others experience.
