

made equally high grades and worked his way through college managing a confectionery.

"Charlie Black, an executive of the Illinois-Owen Glass company of Chicago, who is called by many, Kansas's greatest athlete; John Wulf, of Chicago, the great center; Bob Mosby, another guard, now with the Cook Paint company in Detroit; Tusten Ackerman, now of the Equitable Life Assurance company, Chicago; Armin Woestemeyer, cashier at the Peoples State bank here, and Andy McDonald, now varsity basketball coach at Springfield (Mo.) Teachers college."

"Don't expect too much of this year's team," the doctor concluded; "they are good but they're only human."

NOW LISTEN, SON, GO IN THERE AND—

Court strategy of the father-to-son variety is in vogue when the K. U. cagers take the floor, because "Bob" Allen is the team's quarter-back-center-forward and his father, Dr. Forrest C. (Phog) Allen, is the university's widely-known basketball mentor. Above Bob is shown receiving a bit of instruction which he probably will use against Kansas State in the Big Six game at Lawrence tonight.

CLEVELAND, Jan. 12.—Sonja Henie, figure skating star, termed ridiculous last night an assertion made in New York Supreme court by Dennis R. Scanlon, promoter and agent, that he saw to it judges favorable to her were appointed for the 1936 Olympic championships.

"It's the most ridiculous thing I ever heard," declared Miss Henie, one of the three winners in national league annals.

Dizzy Dean, the popoff guy with the buggywhip arm, who won more than twenty games a year for four straight seasons. Lefty Grove, who led the American league in earned-run pitching average for nine years, won 108 games in four seasons.

Carl Hubbell, 20-plus winner for five successive years, probably the who is appearing in an ice show here.

"As a matter of fact I skated in the 1936 Olympics without even a single Norwegian judge, although there were judges from almost every other country in the event.

"Scanlon is going to be in for a lot of trouble, because I'm going to New York next week to testify, and tell plenty.

"I'm not worried, because this is just another suit," she laughed. "I was sued for a million once, and didn't worry."

SWIGART TO BUCS AGAIN.

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 12.—(A. P.)—The number of Pirates in line for 1940's baseball reached to eighteen today with the signing of 24-year-old Oadis Swigart, Archie, Mo., pitcher. Swigart was optioned to Knoxville last year, and recalled by Pittsburgh in the fall.

National league's best of the '30s. DiMaggio, who came with a rush late in the stretch, and may go down as No. 1 among baseball's all-time aces. Bob Feller, Mel Ott, Red Ruffing.

They were great. But, in our book, Gehrig was the man.

Three times in the decade he led his league in runs batted in, and set a record at 184 in 1931. Once, in 1934, he was batting champion. Three years ago he was voted the most valuable player.

For thirteen straight years he scored 100 or more runs. Thirteen years he hit for 300 or more total bases. Thirteen seasons he batted in 100 or more runs. He hit four home runs in one game and blasted twenty-three homers with the bases loaded. These were all records.

He played in seven world series, thirty-four games, with a batting average of .361, and held the rec-
