Dear Dr. Allen:

I feel ashamed of myself for not having answered your kind letter of way back in Oct. much earlier than this. However, I feel certain you will understand when I say that moving into a home of our own, the arrival of a bounding baby boy, the intensive fall season we've had at the College due to postponement on account of the infantile epidemic, and trying to shape up a respectable basketball team out of some shapeless material — well, there you have it — and I've been plenty busy. Let's look at each of these causes individually.

Jean & I decided that if we were ever to get settled the time was ripe so we scouted about Swarthmore for a home. But they wanted your
