Mr. Virgil Severe,
Ashland, Kansas.

Dear Virg:

I trust that you like Boulder and its environment. Don't you think it a rather sad commentary, Virg, when a fellow peddles athletes on the hoof?

I have always tried to impress upon the boy that the education a man gets in college is much more durable than his athletic career. We are kidding fellows when we try to put athletics as the most important experience in college life. But I suppose that fellows who get paid in college with soft jobs cannot comprehend why an athlete would choose a college more on the academic than the athletic basis.

Lots of good luck to you, Virg, in your law practice, but not so much success in your proselyting endeavors. Please remember me kindly to Mrs. Severe and your family.

Sincerely yours,
