

on account of my having had no experience. I know every house mother who had but got along all right—