

November 9, 1937.

Mr. Harold Smith,
Smith-Grieves Publishing Co.,
17th and Washington,
Kansas City, Mo.

Dear Harold:

Miss Bearg called from the office this morning and delivered the message regarding your tickets for the Kansas-Missouri football game.

You will remember, Harold, that I am no longer Athletic Director, and am not in a position to pull a rabbit out of the hat. I passed on your message to Mr. Earl Falkenstien, our financial athletic manager, who will do his very best to give you the best possible seats remaining at this time. As weeks go there is a very little time left before the big game, and many of the best tickets have been purchased.

However, you will get the very best under the conditions, I assure you. I wish we might do better, but the time is late.

Sincerely yours,

FCA:AH

Director of Physical Education.