

September 25, 1937.

Mr. John K. Selleck,
University of Nebraska,
Lincoln, Nebraska.

Dear John:

I saw Mr. D. G. Hamilton, of the Hamilton Wholesale Drug Company, in Kansas City, yesterday, and he is worried sick because the tickets that you wrote me you were sending him had not arrived.

After I received your letter I wrote him on the 22nd stating that the tickets had been mailed as you expressed in your letter.

I am writing hastily today so that this note will be on your desk Monday morning. He has made arrangements with his guests to take them to the game and he is afraid he is going to fail.

Will you please check on the shipment at once and write to Mr. Hamilton? I will appreciate your kind cooperation.

With every good wish, I am

Sincerely yours,

Director of Physical Education.