Mr. Darrel Hinkhouse
Beloit, Kansas

Dear Darrel:

The interpretation meeting of the Big Six basketball coaches will be Sunday morning, December 8. We are meeting Saturday night and Sunday morning, and the open meeting will be immediately following the Missouri Valley and Big Six coaches meeting. We will endeavor to finish our meetings by at least Sunday noon--we hope.

There will be a meeting of the Missouri Valley coaches on Saturday, December 7, but several Big Six coaches have scheduled games, and we have had difficulty in getting this corralled. Heretofore we have met on Saturday and Sunday, but, in as much as some of the boys are playing Friday night, we thought it might be well hereafter to set a definite date for all Big Six coaches, and not have games on the Friday preceeding the Saturday that we are to meet.

Iowa State is playing a game on the 7th at Ames, and they are playing Minnesota at Minneapolis on the 9th. Oklahoma is playing Oregon at Norman on the 9th, and we will play the University of Texas in Lawrence on the 9th and 10th. So you see there are many reasons why some of the boys do not want to be away for the interpretation, especially since they have scheduled games so close to the 7th and 8th.

However, I am definitely calling a meeting for the 8th, Sunday morning, and most of us will be down there for the meeting of all coaches on the 7th.

I have written Artie Eilers, secretary of the Missouri Valley coaches, and sent the schedule, so that as many coaches as possible can meet on Saturday night. Early Sunday morning the Big Six coaches will meet together, and then they will have a conference with the Missouri Valley coaches, and, if possible, I would like to definitely set the opening meeting for 11:00 o'clock Sunday morning.

I am glad that you plan to attend the meeting. I will see you there.

Sincerely yours,

Director of Physical Education and Recreation
Varsity Basketball Coach
