It is interesting to note that there are 16.3 more passes than catches. If one adds the fumbles (6.1) and the wild passes (7.57) the difference is almost erased.

When one considers the possibilities for offensive mistakes, it would appear that the negative evaluation points (73.2) is relatively low.

In order to compare averages of the four non-conference home games and the five conference home games, the data are presented in outline form.
