The Big Six Conference of Universities and Colleges Comes to Town This Week End With One of Its Annual Athletic Events.... The Indoor Meet in the Auditorium Saturday Night.... The Football Rules Makers Don't Like Last Second

Boston by a scant three yards two and three-fifths seconds off the After the first two rounds all three parts. Substitutions.... Why Shouldn't Army Boxers Be as Well-Conditioned as Non-Army Fighters?

(By The Star's Sports Editor.)

TOU'D like to see a Big Six conference football game in Kansas City sometime? You'd like to see a Big Six basketball game in the auditorium sometime? Almost surely the answer is in the affirmative. Possibly you never will, but times and conditions are changing and in the final analysis, who knows? But one thing is certain. If you'd like to offer testimony in support of the argument that this city would give paying support to Big Six athletic contests played in Kansas City, all you have to do is to be among those present at the Big Six indoor track and field meet in the Municipal Auditorium Saturday night of this week. If you happen to be a devotee of track and field you will be there, of course. Otherwise you may need some selling. Our main selling point would be to help Kansas City convince these Big Six people that we appreciate their athletic events enough to patronize them when they are brought into our front yard.

All you alumni of the universities of Missouri, Kansas, Nebraska, Oklahoma and the Kansas State and Iowa State colleges should lead the way. If you don't support the local activities of your own schools, have you any license to expect others to do so? The Big Six meet is really a wonderfully attractive indoor entertainment, something quite different from the ordinary run of indoor events, but highly spectacular. The expensive equipment, when set up, makes the auditorium probably the finest place in the country for an entertainment of the Big Six track and field type. New York's Madison Square Garden long has had this honor.

If you know nothing of track and field as a sport, but have an eye to good athletic competition, you'll be surprised at the entertainment you can find in the auditorium Saturday night. The events are highly competitive and you sense it in the atmosphere. It's really a splendid entertainment.

So wake up, all you Big Six alumni, and spread the word.

"You Can't Do That"-Any More. A LTHOUGH the free-for-all and any time substitution rule in football did not noticeably slow up the game last fall, as many believed it would, nevertheless there were times when the rule was Usually that was when the defensive team was lined up ready for the attack and the offensive team would be emerging from its huddle. In would dash a substitute, delaying the play. There is a penalty for delaying the game, of course, and we saw a dozen cases of this lastsecond substitution racket when we believed a penalty should have been assessed but none was.

annoying, both to players and to customers.

The coaches who make the rules now have taken care of this. At their December meeting in Jack Stewart's Camelback Inn at Phoenix, the football legislators adopted a rule that will stop this last ditch substituting. Under the 1942 code no substitution may be made after the referee has "positioned the ball." The master official "positions the TATHAT'S the answer to this one? Private club boxers are in better physical condition than army fighters.

Long has boxing been touted as a great sport and a splendid physical conditioner for men in the rmy and navy. Army and navy camps have their boxing instructors and really go in for the sport. But if one may judge from the recent four nights of amateur boxing that constituted The Star's Golden Gloves finals the boys outside the army came up to the championship tournament in better condition than the army fighters. Not necessarily better coached, but in better physical condition to travel a fast pace for the three I (AN TELL WHICH) rounds of A. A. U. boxing.

That was the opinion of a majority of the experts on boxing and physical training who saw the bouts. Undoubtedly there is a reason or reasons, but what are they?
