THE READER'S CAMERA CLICKS

Sirs: Your July 25th issue had a letter on the "Speak Up" page asking why some one didn't invent a new game. I am inclosing pictures of a new game called "Goal-Hi," first played a few days after the above mentioned letter was published. Its creator is Dr. Fog Allen, basketball coach at Kansas University. "Goal-Hi" is similar to basketball, except there is only one goal, and the court is circular. To make it faster, fouls are penalized by a stay in a penalty box as in hockey and the ball is in play after every basket. The court is 50 feet in diameter with a circle 6 feet across at the base of the goal post over which players cannot step. It can be played on most lawns and at night by car headlights, and permits each player an equal opportunity to be a high score man. Thos. Bowlus, Lawrence, Kansas.

A New Form of Basketball Enlivens Summer on Mt. Oread

THE relative quiet of the summer school session at the University of Kansas has been broken in recent weeks by brisk scrimmages of sprightly athletes around a post with a strange wire contraption atop it. The men, high school basketball coaches taking summer instruction, are playing hi-goal, a quite radically different form of basketball developed by Dr. F. C. Allen, veteran and expert basketball coach at the Jayhawker school. Hi-goal is played on a 50-foot circular area and both teams shoot for the same goal. When a goal is scored the ball bounces down upon the contestants and immediately is in play again. The game calls for brisk, unbroken action and extremely accurate shooting, as pictures on this page indicate. Hi-goal isn't the only spirited summer activity on the campus, however. Notice the summer schoolgirls at play.

THIS IS HI-GOAL and making a basket—as Gerald Barker (arm upraised), Minneapolis, Kas., coach, is doing—isn't as easy as in conventional basketball, for, as you see, there is no backboard. The ball will drop down through the basket and the game will go on without pause. A game consists of four quarters of seven and one-half minutes each. In the play (left to right) are Clifford Olander, coach at Argentine high school, Kansas City, Kansas; Alvin Emch, coach at Madison, Kas., high school; Kenneth Center, coach at Great Bend, Kas.; Barker; Vernon Hays, Lecompton, Kas., coach; Kenneth Cassida, Towanda, Kas., coach; Loren Florell of Topeka, a K. U. varsity player, and Art Lawrence, coach at Rosedale high school, Kansas City, Kansas.

SHARP SHOOTING IS REQUIRED to score two points in hi-goal. This picture makes that clear. It shows Florell about to let go of the ball for the difficult target with Hays guarding him.

ONE WAY TO GET A REST is to make a foul in hi-goal. Dr. Allen is shown placing Gerald Barker in the penalty box. His team must play without him until his "term" has expired. No free throw is awarded.

SOFT BALL is as popular with girls as with men students on the summer session campus. The umpire is Betty Campbell of Lawrence, the catcher, Ann Carlisle, 14 East Fifty-sixth street terrace, and the batter, Joan Taylor of Leon, Kas.

Reserve Officers at a "War" Without Wounds

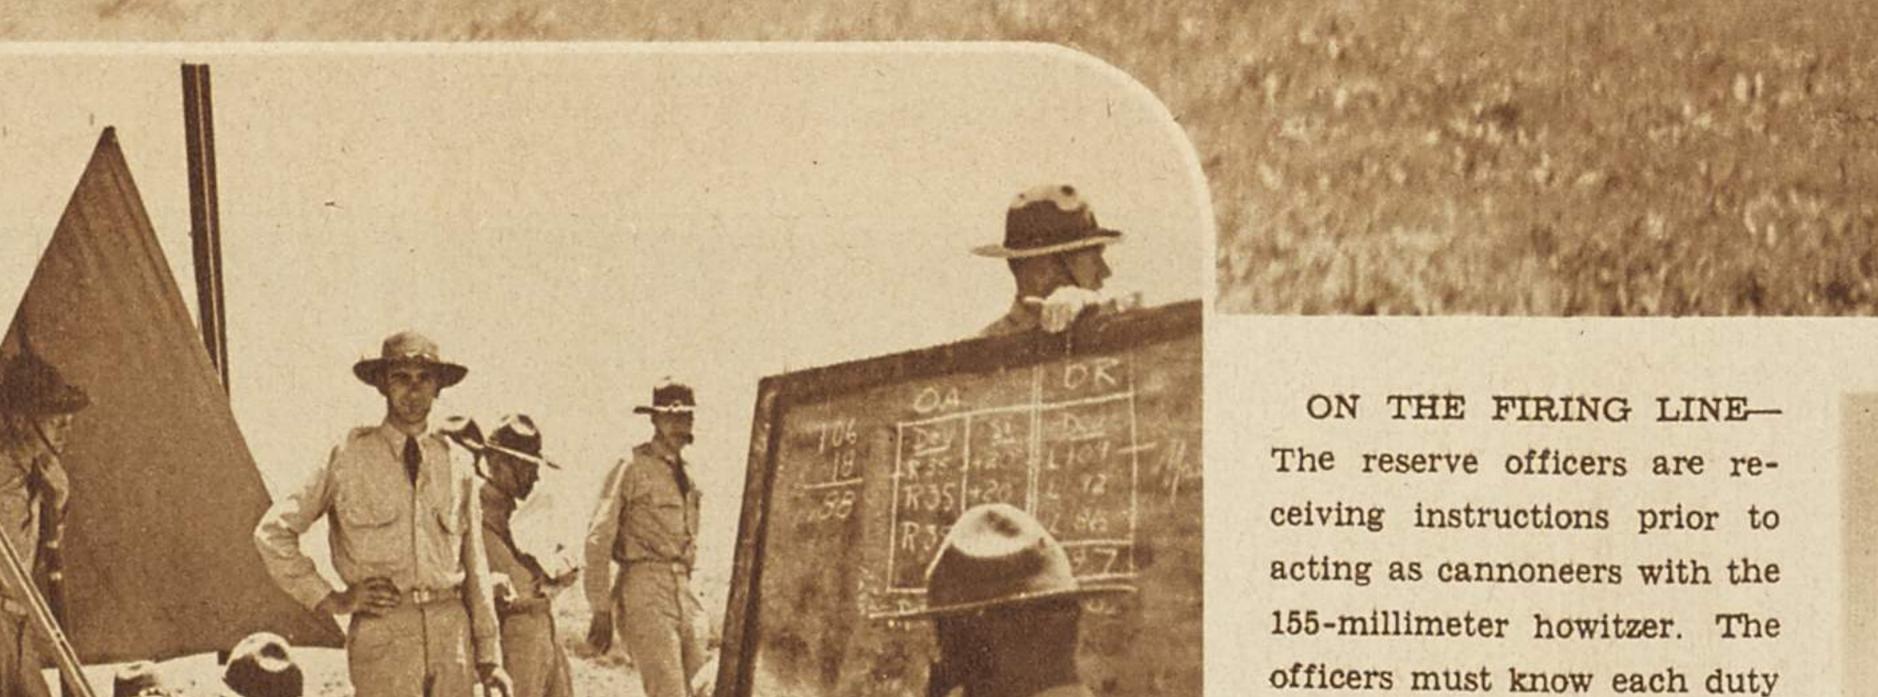

N this page is a pictorial record of two weeks at a training "war" that does not wound by reserve officers drawn from various parts of the 7th corps area (including Missouri, Arkansas, Kansas, Nebraska, the Dakotas and Minnesota). Training was received with Batteries E and F of the 80th field artillery, Ft. Des Moines, Ia., motorized and equipped with 155millimeter howitzers. The duty for the reserve officers included a road march from Ft. Des Moines, Ia., to Ft. Riley, Kas., with an overnight bivouac at Ft. Leavenworth, Kas. This picture story centers largely around the activities of Capt. William Norman Remley, engineer for the Missouri highway department. The pictures and, in the main, the accompanying comment are by his brother officer, W. L. Whitsett of Jefferson City.
