Mr. E. C. Quigley

Dear Ernie:

Our mutual friend, Sidney Lindscott, President of the bank at Erie, Kansas, called me yesterday morning and wanted 12 tickets. Naturally, I referred him to Clyde Baker because applications were not being received here. He tried to get Clyde Baker but Clyde, being run crazy by the telephone, refused to answer the phone.

Here is Swede Lindscott's story. He wants 12 tickets, 2 for sure for he and Mrs. Lindscott. They will be in Kansas City that day on other business and they want to see the game. For the other 10, the citizens of Erie are sending their basketball team up to see the game. Several of these boys on the team are returned veterans and it is rather a civic thing they are doing. So when I talked to Swede this morning, he said, "Just turn this over to Ernie Quigley and have him do the best for me, but I sure want two for myself and Mrs. Lindscott."

Swede said for you to draw on him for the amount and so I am turning this over to you, hoping that you will deal with Sidney.

He said that he saw you at the last banquet. I am sure you remember him.

Sincerely,

Director of Physical Education,
Varsity Basketball Coach.
