Dear Clint:

Thank you for your good letter regarding Jack Ballard. I talked to Jack and the boys, and I will be glad to give him a job.

I quite agree with you that most of these boys do not need a job, but if they want one we can give them one, but I doubt if they will want to work very long. Most of these kids think that the universities have a group of electric clocks they are supposed to wind, and when they have to get down and really work for their money they soon find an excuse to quit and choose the easier run.

However, there are some boys who really want to work and we have always made it a point to give this type of boy a job. So you can tell Mr. Ballard or Mr. Leary that if Jack and Conway want a job we will give them one. I quite agree with you that many of these parents have a notion that because a boy is an athlete he is entitled to some soft and easy way of existence.

I appreciate your interest and assure you that we will play the game with you one hundred per cent in lining up these boys for the University.

With all good wishes, I am

Very sincerely yours,

Director of Physical Education and Recreation,
Varsity Basketball Coach.
