

High School Basketball (Cont.)

WARREN SETTLES, Scott City- A big, rugged boy. A senior who is 6'3" tall and weighs around 190 pounds. A center. Seemed to be a fairly good boy potentially. Apparently had not had too much coaching or experience and was far from a finished player. Did not handle the ball smoothly, but was effective. He fairly waded around around the basket. Not a bad pivot shot, but missed setups and free throws.

DON PALMATEER, Lawrence- A pretty good high school guard, but I don't know how good he will be as a college ball player. A plenty rugged boy, who rebounds nicely. A sweet ball handler. Is 6'1" tall and weighs 185 pounds. Pretty good on defense. Probably be better in football in college. Is a good shot however, both on long shots and one handers. Has the old fight, but fouls out occasionally as a result.

JACK CORLIS, Lawrence- Another senior at Lawrence high. Is a 6' senior center. Afraid he is too weak on scoring to make a good college ball player. Also lacks fight. A sweet ball handler, but a little too methodical. Looked good on defense at times. His passing might get him by, but personally I don't think so.

JUNIUS PENNY, Lawrence- A sophomore who is one of the finest natural athletes Lawrence has had in recent years. A sweet football player as a center and a fine forward in basketball. Is 5'10" tall, weighs about 168 pounds and is built beautifully. Makes most of his points on recovery shots, but when he gets hot makes some uncanny goals. A real scrapper and a fairly good ball handler. Needs just a little more polish.
