

And now we come again to the point where the "experts" step forth to let everyone know just who is who in the basketball world, and do their choosing for honors in an all-tourney team from the various players who participated in the district tourney held in Lebanon last week.

A group of sports authorities and those connected with the various teams participating in the tourney met and compared notes with the following results:

The all-tourney team: Vance Hall, Downs; Max Kissell, Portis; Junior Caldwell, Portis; DuWayne Grimes, Harlan; Ernest Kattenberg, Lebanon.

Dillon of Downs also desrves mention as he was just a shade behind some of the boys named and would be the sixth man, at least. With Dillon and the five boys named, the following would make a squad of ten men-McCracken of Lebanon, M. Caldwell of Portis, Walter of Downs and Martin of Gaylord.

Twenty-three men voted on the se'ections and each man named five men for the tourney team and then gave such honorable mention as he wished. Allowing two points for each first team vote and one point for honorable mention. At this rating, six men on the Downs team were mentioned with a total of 91 points.

Hall and Kissell were unanimous choices of all voters. Hall and Kissell scored fifty or more points, Hall leading with a total of 60.

EDITORS KNOW HOW TO HAND BOUQUETS

While attending the district basketball tourney at Lebanon last Saturday night we heard scores of people pass remarks that were extremely complimentary to the Downs Dragons, but of them all, we appreciated two more than all of the others.

These two compliments came from editors, Editor Kissell of the Portis Independent, and Editor Hart of the Lebanon Times.

Said Editor Kissell: "The Dragons are the best team in the tournament; they are about ten points better than the Portis team."

And from Editor Hart came this: "I came out to the game tonight just to see Hall perform," We have noticed if a woman insists on wearing the pants in the family—it is not long before the husband starts looking for another
