Coach, it's none of my business how they run the guide, but the East isn't the top circuit any more. We all know that. I think that front position should be passed around. Let the Big Ten have it one year, the Big Six the next, the Pacific Coast the next, etc. Also, how many readers of the guide over the nation gives a darn about those Eastern tables, four pages of 'em? Very few folks care what the Columbia-Penn scores were back in 1912. I think they should either be eliminated or everybody's should be carried. I don't want to crab, and what I've written here is just between us Rebeccas, but just because the editor is an easterner is no sign the other sections of the nation shouldn't get a break. I get so tired picking up the guide year after year and reading, on page 1 or 2, why Ralph Morgan thinks the coaches' all-star team is a flop. Now. I feel better already to have gotten that off my chest. Been wanting to say it for years.
