

Few High Scores

Kansas State shares the top because of a defense that is as hard to crash as a millionaire's penthouse. Of the five quintets to visit Manhattan this fall one was held to 15 points for the evening's effort, two climbed into the 20's, Nebraska collected 32 and Oklahoma 36.

Wildcat students are using Kansas' visit to show the legislature that Nichols gym lacks size but every knot in the floor means something to the defensemen Coach Jack Gardner will unleash in an effort to protect the Manhattan team's home record.

Only Kentucky has beaten the Wildcats in their own lair this season, 28 to 25.

Also a Cellar Fight

While the fight for first place attracts most of the attention, Missouri and Nebraska will be battling just as desperately at Lincoln, with the loser occupying the cellar.

The Tigers surprised by holding Iowa State to a three-point victory Saturday.

With those two games out of the way scholastic problems take over in the Big Six. Oklahoma, third of the present leaders, meets the Tigers on the Sooner court Friday and the Huskers go to Iowa State Saturday.

Those two games are exactly half of the conference activity billed for the next 16 days while the athletes are busy with midyear examinations.

Threat to Grove Record

Engleman's point getting activities make him a definite threat to the 15.4 average for 10 games established by Frank Groves of Kansas State in 1937.

He potted 25 points Thursday as the Jayhawks dropped Missouri and showed every indication that he definitely has shaken off all effects of the knee injury that handicapped him at the start of last season.

The Arkansas City product, a senior in the school of business, was a potent factor in the Kansans' bid for the 1940 National Collegiate Athletic association title and earned that group's all-America rating with his play against Rice, Southern California and Indiana University.
