where the two Loyal Sheriffs Booth and Riche were sworen and are now in possession of their office, which is a great mortification to the Whigs, they are now electing a new L: Major, and there is not yet come to this end of the towne an account who it is they have chosen, if he be not a good man he will not be aproved on by the King, I am just now told the pole is put of till monday, which makes me doubt whether his Ma: will on monday, but that will not be known till to morrow, I shall now say no more but to assure you, you shall always find me to be your most humble servant. J.
