Friday afternoon.

Dear Mr. Gilchrist

Thank you for remembering me who have dropped out of the circle! Indeed I like to be remembered. Yet I must not dream of accepting an afternoon at Hampstead, least of all just now when my Mother and I are alone together my Aunt's having gone to Brighton. My dear Mother absorbs me: you may easily believe it, at her advanced age.

None the less I should like you and your daughter to retain me in friendly memory while I remain

Truly yours

Christina G. Rossetti.

Mamma sends cordial remembrances.
