7th April.

My dear Mrs Gilchrist

I might not know how to excuse my not having yet returned your kind call, were it not that the weather has been against me and I am not yet quite hardy.
Will you now pardon me, accept my Mother's kind remembrance, and favour us by dining with us next Tuesday (13th) at 6.30?
We hope Mr Percy Gilchrist will give us pleasure by accompanying you. Please oblige us by sending us a reply with the least convenient delay, as we cannot ask Gabriel for Tuesday until we know whether we may invite him to meet you.

Hoping for your acceptance, always and

Very truly yours

Christina G. Robette.

William is abroad, so we must apologize for the absence of your host.
