

30 Torrington Square - W.C.
New Year's night: - a moment for saluting three dear people.

Dear Mr. Scott

I hope I am first to show you a few pleasant words from the Guardian.
What I have omitted had nothing to do with our subject, but went off to a look about Turner; the critic getting back at last to you.

I fear to so eminent a print-collector as yourself it is vain to mention a negotiant (I think William Callidit) after George Morland which has come into my hands: but the faintest encouragement from you would make me turn up someday with it in my hands to woo your acceptance. So don't risk my rash opening towards my so doing!

Always truly yours

Christina G. Probert.

This wonderful mezzotint is in fair plight but I own it has of yore hung up for an unknown period without a glass: at least, so everything about it suggests.
