Dear Mr. Macnurd,

I have just enclosed the tickets to Miss Browning expressing my pleasure with much that I heard. It would be much gained if people could understand that the art in painting may be allowed to have a great thought, clothe of course in a suitable part of art. I think that really great complete thought seldom falls far short in this respect - It seems a pity to me that Mr. Maye should take up, I thought the exploded idea of going to the Frends for painting - as the greater difficulties - the carnations - are
