

S. Gill also & copy of an Italian day & English day (Galium Britan no & another Galium Soap)
My dear Sir

Many thanks for your prompt reply, after which I shall feel much inclined to go forward. I quite agree with you as to the sentence about Tennison, & shall omit it if I print.

My reason for writing, however, is to say how much I hope that nothing in my hurriedly written letter, as regards the Banner can possibly have seemed alarming or offensive. I felt so sure, in venturing
