

you what particulars I have unearthed. By far the largest and best room of all I have seen is the one room at the pastycooks, but very likely such a makeshift is not admissible. The whole group of lodgings I send you are more or less near the Church, - this, need I remind you? involves their being at some distance from the sea, and accounts for the comparatively low rents demanded. Near the sea, I am not aware of anything to be had, short of an entire house.

If there is anything more I can do, command me. I called on Mrs Seddon before commencing my round of apartments - hunting, and it was in fact thro' her that I heard of the cottage in my list: so there can be no doubt of the respectability of this said cottage -- for,
