When I was young, I had a tendency to frown. I think it was partly due to my eyes because I began wearing glasses when I was nineteen. You have that same tendency, and you are so pretty and attractive that the frown does not become you, and I believe that with just a little effort on your part, you can overcome it. After all, it is a lot better to take things as they come and to make the best of them, than it is to be irked about them.

Your grandparents love you and are proud of you, so you must forgive them if they expect more of you than they should.

Lovingly,

Your Grandad
