Dear Kathryne:

I enclose herewith a picture of the farm home of your grandfather, Wm. C. Cowdy, which I think was not far from Camden. Others of the family will know exactly where it was and perhaps is.

The old board fences are of interest as is also the muddy road. I cannot understand just what the tall poles are because we didn't have electricity nor telephones at the time this picture was taken. Perhaps they represent young trees that had been planted.

I trust you will find the picture interesting.

Lovingly,

Your Cousin
