Dear Collie:

In looking over things in a drawer of the little desk in the east bedroom, I ran across this pocket book and papers, also the bank statements, and did not know whether you had seen these accounts. The letters are valuable, and am insuring the package to you so they will not be lost.

Am leaving for the north tomorrow night, as I have a good prospect of sale for my price and only two hundred forty acres to go, just the nome place. Will let you know further if anything developes but Mary looks at the place as I do; hates to see it go, but is wondering, should anything happen to me, who would be able to take it over and keep it. Will keep all the 400 acres of the Pear Lake part; the 240 acres south and the 160 acres south towards the river, and when the big lake gets in it would be more easily handled. More later
Love Bro. Chas.
