Dear Children:

I am very fond of assorted cheese so that your Christmas gift to me was very acceptable.

I hope that you had a wonderfully good time during the holidays. It has seemed just a little bit lonesome in knowing that you were not here. I presume it will not be long until school will be going again.

In this matter of marriage in your family, it seems that "the last shall be first" was especially true, and seeing how easy it was and how fine everything went off, Owen and Marilyn couldn't wait any longer.

Much love to you both.

Lovingly, your grandfather
