

My dear Callie,
Grace has written us about Gertrude's illness and of your disappointing vacation. If only Gertrude gets well again we shall all forget about the disappointment. We all send sympathy. Somehow I feel sure it will not prove serious, but I am holding the thought of perfect health for her.
I am not a C. S., but I sometimes hold thoughts.
If you have any time just drop me a line.

I suppose Florence and Billy are now on. I am sorry we could not go to the wedding, but we could not leave home as father and mother are so feeble and require so much care. I am
