Dear Blanche:

After receiving your letter of February 25, I immediately took steps to get your birth certificate. I went first to the clerk of the District Court, and then to the city clerk. From there I had to send certain papers to the Bureau of Vital Statistics in Topeka. I have not since heard from them, and I am hoping that they sent the certificate directly to you as they have had plenty of time to do so.

It always pays to get these things in readiness as far in advance as possible due to delays which often occur if you wait until the last minute. Anyway, I know you were born, and I know when, and I know what a sweet looking little infant you were, and what a fine girl and woman you have been since.

I had a few minutes talk over the phone with Eileen this morning.

Dolph is home, but he is bothered by his sence of unbalance. Personally, I have likened his experience to that of being in a bottle that has been severely shaken. He had frequently risen from sea level to 13,000 feet in a few moments and then the height of his flight would vary with conditions. For a time, he thought probably he had picked up a bug of some sort but the doctors think that improbable.

He has carried out the wishes of his physician better than I had any idea he would. He was down town yesterday, Sunday, for a short time at the office, but he has not been down today. Last evening, also Sunday, he and Marie spent an hour or more with me at our home. I am inclined to think that it is not a serious matter, but one which will respond to rest and treatment.

Everything has been moving smoothly at the office. I hope that you are none of you too much upset over the forthcoming wedding.
