television set, but do not use it a great deal, preferring to read. There is one program, "Leave it to the Girls", which I find interesting. In this program a lady is master of ceremonies and a gentleman, someone rather outstanding in the public eye, is invited to come as a guest. Questions are discussed which are submitted by mail and the question which develops the widest discussion draws a special prize. There are a half dozen keen witted women in the group and the discussions are quite sharp, neither the men or women escaping unscathed. Sometimes there are programs of dancing, Christmas celebrations, etc., which are interesting, but as yet our total service comes through the Kansas City Star service which limits us in scope. Later on when other trunks are opened, it will be better.

You doubtless will recall that it is 14 months ago today that Gertrude passed away. The hurt is still here.

Much love to you both,
