

they are both well and feeling fine.

Today, I am forced to have new linoleum put down in the kitchen & pantry. The old was cracking & tripping us & rather than patch - I have it to do over again, this having it all done over. (the floor) Consequently, there will be no cooking today - I'm getting hamburgers this noon -

We still have our good nurse but I am letting her go for 3 days next week. She hasn't had any time off since she came on 3 months ago - but fortunately Virginia Ward - the nurse we had before who was excellent, will come on to relieve Mrs Davis. I want them to be satisfied w- they'll see us through this.

There is no news here. I'm still hoping I can come to Lawrence, but until Pat shows gradual ^{steady} improvement, I'll not leave him.

I do hope your Easter Day will be a happy one. Wish I could be with you to talk flowers and just be off.

Love you so much -

Devotedly - Blanche.
