

not when our time will come I should very much like to go on a visit but school will soon it is now the last school day of the week and I should be pleased to have father come here and then I would go home with him and all little Josy and Gusy this would please me very much indeed but I do not much expect him but I hope I am mistaken. The sun is not very bright to day nor very blowily I have burned all of my lessons very well to day except Philo and I had not time to burn it as my time was mostly occupied most of the time I have not worked my bills to day but I hope I shall understand them Philosophy my vision

At present Miss Blanchard is bending over James and helping him write a Dialogue for examination day Mr Clark is hearing a Geography lesson and the rest of the students are engaged in writing Mary has just gone to rehearse her dialogue I will now close for it is nearly four lacking fifteen minutes good bye May 7. 1850. May has come with its green grass and putting forth its buds to beautify and adorn us that it may seem pleasant and useful to us Oh! how pleasant is May she is a beautiful lady dressed in green and the sweet little flowers to have come to greet us they are just awaked from the cold sleep of winter
