Wymore, Nebraska

Dear Lance:

I am sending you herewith three stamps. One marks the one hundredth anniversary of progress in the recognition of rights of women. One marks seventy-five years of the American Bankers' Association, and another marks one hundred fifty years, which covers from the year 1800 until the present year of 1950.

I presume your school year is pretty nearly over, and I am sure that you have made the same excellent grades that you have maintained all through your school life so far.

Please give my love to your brothers and to your papa and mama.

Lovingly,
