W. C. Simons

Dear Collins

Your letter at hand, in reply, will say that Harrison Gody was buried at Jetmore, I should know as my team and spring wagon was the hearse, and I was the only one present that held the small service, reading a chapter and offering a prayer. Ed talked of shipping the body east, but it was in ~~in~~ such a terrible condition that it could not be embalmed. I do not remember the date, it must be on record at Jetmore.

Ed and W. C. Gody are buried at Burdett. I was not at the burial of W. C.

We all enjoyed your visit and you can not come too often. Although I would like to meet Mrs. Gody and the rest of your children.

Charlie Jr. is to preach the funeral of Fred Maddison today at his home I expect you remember him

With love to you and yours
Charles Ruff.
