...

My reading is restricted mostly to newspapes and periodicals - occasionally a book - The last one I read was "The Egyptian" - no doubt histmically very great - but most modern books ake a little nauseating to me as is much of so-called "modern art" - I have seen what is considered the "greatest" of all time and I must admit some of it leaves me rather cold -

Now please dont think I'll always write such long-winded diatribes and take too much time of a busy business man - but sometimes when I get started I cant get "turned off" until I "run down" -

Be good to me and write again after you get your breath from reading this -

I dont blame you for not wanting to give up your home - The comforts of a place of your own is worth all it costs, I'm sure - I hope I can always maintain a home some where - I love my "family" and friends too much not to want a place where they can come to visit me -

So long - chum —

Edna M -