

and grandchildren about her. It gave her a great deal of pleasure. She died just about a week after her return to St. Wayne.

My son and his wife drove me back from Northport yesterday, and to-day they start on their return to take up their work in Coker College in Hartsville, South Carolina. They have been there now for about thirteen years. Later in the year I shall plan to go down and make them a visit.

I do appreciate your invitation to be your guest if I should ever visit Lawrence. I suppose it is doubtful if I ever return, but if I should, I should most gladly accept your invitation if it were convenient for you at that time. I do thank you.

Most cordially your friend,
L. S. Dison
